Freeze! The Science Behind Making Ice Cream

Eric Bucher, Arizona Science Center

Using mathematics, students will become fully immersed in the interesting process through which ice cream is crafted. They will invent their own flavors, mix ingredients, use a scientific freezing process, and explore the textures and tastes of their new design. Science is just as tasty as it is educational!

Family Plate & Pinch Pots

MudPie Studios

Join us to design and decorate your masterpiece! We will make dad a special hand-print plate for Father's Day. This is a great way to spend time together creating memories that last a lifetime.

In July, we will be making Pinch Pots. Pinch Pots are created by using your hands to press and shape the clay. It's great fun for kids!

Twisted!

Eric Bucher, Arizona Science Center

Children will captivate their senses as they engage their ears in a story about a baker, maneuver their sense of touch in measuring liquids and solids, and use their sight to observe the effects of heat on their dough. Preschoolers will shape their own pretzels and use their sense of taste to enjoy them!
